DESIGNER

Henry Wilson

Henry Wilson is an Australian designer and founder of Studio Henry Wilson, based in Sydney. Established in 2012, his practice spans collectible furniture, lighting, objects, and architectural hardware, exploring the relationship between utility, materiality, and sculptural expression. Rooted in a background in woodwork and industrial design, Wilson creates works distinguished by their restrained forms, tactile surfaces, and enduring functionality, balancing rational design with the emotional qualities of handmade objects. Guided by a deep appreciation for natural materials and the Australian landscape, Wilson works primarily with bronze, aluminium, stone, glass, and timber, embracing the subtle imperfections that emerge through craftsmanship and time. His practice combines traditional making techniques with contemporary production methods to create timeless objects that celebrate longevity, material honesty, and quiet elegance. Defined by a dialogue between precision and imperfection, his work blurs the boundaries between sculpture, design, and architecture while inviting a lasting connection between people and the objects they live with.
