DESIGNER

Richard Yasmine

Richard Yasmine is a Lebanese interior architect and product designer whose practice unfolds between imagination and lived reality. Drawing from emotion, instinct, and human physiology, he approaches design as a space for experimentation, where provocation meets restraint and boldness meets minimalism. His work dissolves the boundaries between the real and imagined, creating objects of striking complexity, expressive presence, and meticulous craftsmanship. Deeply rooted in Lebanese heritage, Yasmine integrates traditional craftsmanship with contemporary technologies, collaborating closely with artisans to develop a language that balances extravagance and precision. His designs resist conventional categorization, embracing controlled chaos, clarity, and subtle fantasy. Presented internationally at Milan, Paris, Beirut, and Dubai design platforms, his work has appeared in Domus, Wallpaper, AD, Dezeen, and Designboom. Through acclaimed commissions and collections, Yasmine has established a distinctive voice in contemporary Middle Eastern design, where cultural memory and visionary experimentation converge.
