ETAMORPH is a New York–based design studio founded by Italian architect and designer Enrico Tognoni, whose practice explores the intersection of contemporary design, advanced technology, and artisanal craftsmanship. Working across collectible furniture, sculptural objects, and bespoke interior finishes, the studio creates timeless pieces distinguished by refined materiality, technical precision, and sculptural elegance. Rooted in Tognoni's Tuscan heritage and multidisciplinary background in architecture and engineering, ETAMORPH balances innovation with a deep respect for traditional craftsmanship. Guided by a philosophy that unites art, engineering, and material exploration, ETAMORPH develops works that celebrate meticulous craftsmanship and thoughtful experimentation. Through refined forms, exceptional detailing, and a harmonious dialogue between technology and handcraft, the studio creates enduring pieces that embody material honesty, contemporary sophistication, and the evolving relationship between design and craftsmanship.
