Laura Pasquino

Laura Pasquino is an Amsterdam-based artist and designer whose multidisciplinary practice spans sculpture, painting, and collectible design. Working primarily with ceramics, her work explores materiality, simplicity, and minimal form through an intuitive process that embraces the tactile qualities of clay. Rooted in an understated sculptural language, her pieces balance organic textures with restrained compositions, creating objects that evoke a quiet sense of permanence and contemplation. Alongside her studio practice, Pasquino has presented solo and group exhibitions internationally across Europe, Asia, and North America. She also collaborates with museums, public art institutions, architects, and international brands, extending her practice into large-scale installations, architectural spaces, and interdisciplinary design projects.
