Fritz Baumann

Fritz Baumann is a German artist and designer whose practice explores the relationship between nature, craftsmanship, and sculptural form. Working primarily with oak, he creates collectible seating and vessels that reveal the inherent character of each tree, embracing its irregularities, grain, and natural evolution. Influenced by the reductive principles of Japanese aesthetics, Baumann transforms raw timber into expressive works that balance sculptural presence with quiet functionality. Guided by a deep dialogue with the material, Baumann allows each piece to evolve through carving, drying, and finishing, embracing cracks, tool marks, and natural imperfections as essential elements of the design. Through techniques such as charring, lime washing, and iron oxide treatments, he enhances the wood’s organic character, creating timeless works that celebrate material honesty, artisanal craftsmanship, and the enduring beauty of nature.
