Megarisiotis

Megarisiotis is an interdisciplinary design studio and furniture brand working across architecture, interiors, and collectible design. Its practice is defined by quiet elegance, refined simplicity, and a deep sensitivity to proportion. Drawing from European heritage and Eastern spatial principles, the studio creates harmonious environments where architecture, furniture, and objects form a cohesive whole. Megarisiotis combines contemporary design with traditional craftsmanship, producing furniture and objects in small quantities or limited editions through selected workshops in Germany. Rejecting mass production, the studio emphasizes material integrity, skilled making, and cultural continuity. Through rigorous design and close collaboration with clients, each project is carefully considered, balancing function, form, and atmosphere. The result is a distinctive body of work where simplicity becomes expressive, craftsmanship gains renewed relevance, and every element contributes to an enduring sense of harmony and character.
