Clement Brazille

Clément Brazille is a French designer whose work explores the relationship between sculpture, architecture, and functional design. Through collectible furniture and objects, he develops pieces distinguished by their strong geometric forms, material presence, and a refined sense of balance between structure and expression. Working closely with artisans and fabricators, Brazille combines traditional craftsmanship with contemporary production techniques to create limited-edition works in materials such as metal, stone, and wood. Characterized by their sculptural quality and technical precision, his designs blur the boundaries between art and function, resulting in objects that are both monumental and deeply tactile.
