DESIGNER

Sander Bottinga

Dutch designer Sander Bottinga has developed a practice rooted in a fascination with lightness, form, colour, and the expressive potential of authentic materials. Guided by a commitment to handcraft, his work balances refined contemporary design with the warmth and character of artisanal making. Over more than two decades, Bottinga has refined his approach through collaborations with leading interior and design studios, developing a sensitive understanding of material, proportion, and atmosphere. His own collection of interior objects is produced in limited series, often in collaboration with small artisan workshops. Each piece is meticulously handcrafted, embracing subtle variations that give every object a distinct identity. Designed for both visual and tactile engagement, his works unite artistic expression with functional purpose. Alongside the collection, Bottinga creates bespoke commissions for private and professional spaces, adapting each piece to its context. Across his practice, material, form, and craftsmanship come together in objects that feel both considered and quietly expressive.
