Noro Khachatryan

Studiokhachatryan is a Brussels-based design studio founded by Noro Khachatryan, whose practice spans sculptural objects, architectural design, interior architecture, and elements for both public and residential spaces. Working across disciplines, the studio develops a coherent language that bridges scale, function, and artistic expression. At the core of Studiokhachatryan's approach is a dialogue between traditional craftsmanship and analytical, contemporary gestures. Natural materials play a central role, valued for their tactile qualities and capacity to carry meaning through time. Each project is shaped through careful consideration of proportion, structure, and material behavior, resulting in works that balance precision with sensitivity. The studio operates through a hybrid production model. While many pieces are self-produced, others are realized in collaboration with high-end industrial manufacturers and skilled artisanal partners worldwide. This flexible approach allows Studiokhachatryan to maintain creative control while engaging specialized expertise, ensuring that each work—whether intimate or architectural in scale—embodies material integrity, refined execution, and a strong conceptual presence.
