Cultivado em Casa

Cultivado em Casa is a Brazilian design studio whose work celebrates the richness of local craftsmanship, natural materials, and the country’s diverse cultural landscape. Through a collection of furniture, lighting, and home objects, the brand explores the relationship between tradition and contemporary living, creating pieces distinguished by their organic forms, tactile qualities, and understated elegance. Working closely with artisans and regional makers, Cultivado em Casa embraces materials such as native woods, natural fibers, rattan, and handcrafted finishes. Their practice is guided by a commitment to sustainability, material authenticity, and thoughtful production, resulting in designs that evoke warmth, simplicity, and a strong sense of place. Rooted in Brazilian heritage yet contemporary in expression, their work reflects a harmonious dialogue between nature, craftsmanship, and everyday life.
