DESIGNER

Milla Vaahtera

Milla Vaahtera is a Finnish designer and artist whose work fuses blown glass, brass, and textile sensibility into forms that are at once bodily and abstract. Trained at Aalto University, her practice ranges from mobile sculptures to pendant lighting and serving objects, and explores themes of corporeality, intuition, and collaborative glass-making. Vaahtera's pieces privilege improvisation within tight constraints—the glassblower's unpredictability is embraced as generative, yielding objects with lively asymmetries and lyric weight. Her Dialogue series and subsequent works have been included in museum and gallery contexts in Finland and abroad. Seen together, her oeuvre maps a porous border between ornament and structure: glass becomes a language for emotional and bodily metaphor, rendered with technical bravura.
