Foraine Studio

Foraine is a Montréal-based design studio founded by Antonio Di Bacco, Cécile Combelle, and Jérôme Laurendeau, whose practice explores the relationship between architecture, furniture, and everyday objects. Emerging from the creative vision of Atelier Barda, the studio develops collectible furniture and objects distinguished by sculptural forms, refined proportions, and a quiet architectural sensibility. Working across disciplines, Foraine creates pieces that balance functionality with a strong emotional and spatial presence. Guided by a deep appreciation for craftsmanship, material integrity, and thoughtful design, Foraine creates objects that feel both familiar and contemporary. Drawing from architectural thinking while embracing the rituals of everyday life, the studio develops timeless works that celebrate understated elegance, meticulous detailing, and the enduring dialogue between design, memory, and human experience.
