Studio Loho

Founded in Bruges in 2017 by designers Karel Loontjens and Jo Hoeven, Studio LOHO is a Belgian design office dedicated to creating enduring works of refined craftsmanship. Rooted in bespoke interior projects, the studio cultivates an ideal ground for product and material design that unites innovation, durability, and timeless elegance. Studio LOHO's international breakthrough came with the launch of its clay bathtub collection, a body of work that encapsulates the studio's philosophy and reveals its bold, recognizable signature. The raw honesty of the material, combined with meticulous attention to form, reflects the studio's commitment to designs that architects and designers, the collection soon expanded to include sinks and bathtubs, further affirming its place within contemporary design. Guided by the belief that living spaces are not merely functional but also sites of expression and beauty, Studio LOHO envisions interiors as harmonious environments where comfort and serenity prevail. Each creation embodies a balance of form and function, aspiring to become an object of lasting significance. At the heart of Studio LOHO lies a clear mission: to craft pieces that endure — timeless in spirit, uncompromising in quality.
