DESIGNER

Pilar Zeta

Pilar Zeta is an Argentine multimedia artist, designer, and creative director celebrated for her mystical and futuristic visual language. Based in Mexico, Zeta is a self-taught digital designer who mastered tools such as Photoshop from an early age, translating intuition and imagination into bold, immersive compositions. Her breakthrough came in 2015 with the creation of Coldplay's A Head Full of Dreams album cover, a collaboration that led to subsequent projects including Everyday Life and Music of the Spheres. Beyond album art, Zeta has directed music videos for internationally acclaimed artists such as Lil

Nas X and Camila Cabello, merging narrative, surrealism, and visual spectacle. Zeta's installations—including Hall of Visions and The Space of Variations—explore the intersections of metaphysics, architecture, and surreal imagery. Her signature style, which she terms "mystical futurism," juxtaposes vivid color palettes, geometric forms, and otherworldly spatial compositions to evoke wonder and transcendence. Across digital and physical realms, her work engages viewers in an immersive, visionary experience, establishing a dialogue between imagination, perception, and contemporary culture.
