DESIGNER

Sofia Alvarado

Sofia Alvarado is a Panamanian designer whose practice brings together tropical modernism and artisanal craftsmanship. Drawing inspiration from the natural landscapes and cultural traditions of Central America, she creates furniture and objects using locally sourced woods, woven fibers, and natural stone. Her designs combine clean lines with tactile materials, resulting in pieces that express warmth, authenticity, and functionality. Working under her studio, Fi, Alvarado collaborates closely with craftspeople across Panama, preserving traditional techniques while translating them into contemporary forms. Her work is deeply connected to place, using material, texture, and pattern to evoke narratives of heritage and environment. Through this dialogue between tradition and modernity, Alvarado contributes to a distinctive contemporary Latin American design language, creating objects that honor local craftsmanship while offering a refined and globally resonant perspective.
