DESIGNER

Boldizar Senteski

Boldizar Senteski is a Hungarian artist and designer whose sculptural works navigate the dynamic interplay between past and future, decay and renewal. Rooted in the architectural and cultural fabric of his native Budapest—where post-Soviet brutalism converges with the grandeur of baroque, neoclassical, and art nouveau traditions—Senteski’s practice reflects the eclectic tensions of his urban environment. Working at the intersection of traditional craftsmanship and industrial innovation, Senteski embraces experimentation as a guiding principle. His works, often realized as unique or limited-edition collectible design pieces, reveal a distinctive mastery of light, form, and materiality. Employing noble materials and processes that invoke alchemy, he celebrates transformation and imperfection, allowing oxidation, patina, and chance to shape the final outcome. Through this dialogue between control and surrender, Senteski creates objects that embody both history and possibility, inviting viewers to contemplate cycles of erosion, renewal, and the enduring resonance of form.
