DESIGNER

Johan Viladrich

Johan Viladrich is a French designer whose practice explores the expressive potential of industrial materials through collectible furniture and objects. A graduate of the Design Academy Eindhoven, he has developed a distinctive design language rooted in structural clarity, material honesty, and refined precision. Working primarily with aluminum, Plexiglas, and steel, Viladrich embraces construction as a defining aesthetic element, allowing joints, fixings, and connections to remain visible as integral parts of each composition. Based between France and the Netherlands, Viladrich creates sculptural pieces that balance minimalist restraint with technical sophistication. Through clean geometries, meticulous detailing, and an architectural approach to making, his work celebrates the inherent logic of construction while transforming everyday materials into timeless objects of quiet elegance.
