Volta

Volta is a Paris-based design studio founded by architect and designer Agathe Lavaud, whose practice explores the relationship between architecture, interiors, and collectible objects. Established in 2016, the studio creates refined spaces and sculptural works distinguished by architectural clarity, meticulous detailing, and a thoughtful dialogue between contemporary design and traditional craftsmanship. Drawing on Lavaud’s background in architecture and interior design, Volta develops projects that balance materiality, proportion, and spatial experience with timeless elegance. Alongside its architectural practice, Volta creates kinetic metal mobiles and sculptural decorative objects inspired by movement, balance, and modernist abstraction. Handcrafted in France, these refined works combine precise metalwork with poetic expression, celebrating craftsmanship, material honesty, and the enduring dialogue between sculpture, architecture, and contemporary living.
