DESIGNER

Ivan Colominas

Ivan Colominas is a Spanish designer based in Milan whose practice explores the sculptural and architectural potential of natural stone. Trained in industrial and transportation design at UCH-CEU in Valencia, he creates collectible furniture and objects distinguished by refined geometries, balanced proportions, and a deep sensitivity to material. Working primarily with marble, Colominas draws inspiration from Italy’s quarry landscapes and centuries-old stoneworking traditions, transforming monolithic materials into elegant contemporary forms. Guided by a minimalist yet expressive design language, Colominas combines technical precision with artisanal craftsmanship to reveal the inherent beauty of stone. His collections celebrate material honesty, structural clarity, and timeless elegance, resulting in sculptural pieces that bridge contemporary design with the enduring legacy of natural materials.
