Atelier Benoit Viaene

Benoît Viaene is a Belgian architect and designer whose work is distinguished by a profound appreciation for materiality, craftsmanship, and the dialogue between architecture, interiors, and landscape. A graduate of the Henry van de Velde Institute in Antwerp, he founded his Ghent-based practice with a vision of creating spaces and objects that balance contemporary sensibilities with a deep respect for traditional building techniques and natural materials. Working across architecture, interior design, and collectible furniture, Viaene is known for his organic forms, tactile surfaces, and nuanced exploration of light. Guided by an interest in authenticity and imperfection, he creates environments and furnishings that reveal the inherent beauty of natural materials while fostering a strong connection between people and place. Through a holistic approach that unites structure, interior, and landscape, his work reflects a timeless pursuit of harmony, warmth, and enduring craftsmanship.
