Part Studio Atelier

studio PART is a conceptual design studio and manufacturing atelier where objects, drawings, and spatial interventions are conceived as fragments of a greater whole. Rooted in the belief that nothing exists in isolation, the studio explores relationships between form, material, space, and user, creating experiences that are interconnected, playful, and considered. Its practice embraces experimentation, sculptural expression, material as colour, conscious craftsmanship, and the balance between structure and spontaneity. Led by Julie Van Mulders and Lennart Van Uffelen, studio PART brings together expertise in interior, furniture, lighting, landscape, and material experimentation. Van Mulders contributes a refined spatial sensibility and luminous lightness, while Van Uffelen brings a dedication to exceptional design, craft, and production. Together, they create objects and environments that balance conceptual clarity with function, transforming everyday encounters into moments of curiosity and wonder. Their work invites interaction and contemplation, revealing design as a dialogue between object, space, and the world beyond.
