Margaux Leycuras

Margaux Leycuras is a French ceramic artist whose practice explores the relationship between architecture, landscape, and material expression. Based between Bordeaux and California, she creates sculptural vessels and collectible objects distinguished by organic forms, tactile surfaces, and a quiet sensitivity to light. Trained in architecture at the École Nationale Supérieure d'Architecture de Nantes, Leycuras draws on her background in residential architecture to develop a refined ceramic language where space, material, and emotion become inseparable. Guided by a deep respect for the inherent qualities of clay, Leycuras embraces texture, irregularity, and the subtle traces of the making process. Influenced by the Japanese philosophy of wabi-sabi and the landscapes of the American West, her work celebrates impermanence, balance, and the quiet beauty of natural materials. Through handcrafted forms and restrained compositions, she creates timeless objects that invite contemplation while exploring the enduring dialogue between architecture, nature, and contemporary craftsmanship.
