Hot Wire Extensions

Hot Wire Extensions is a Swiss design studio founded by Fabio Hendry, whose work explores the intersection of experimental material research, digital fabrication, and sustainable design. Through a proprietary process, the studio transforms discarded SLS nylon powder into intricate, bone-like structures grown around electrically heated wire, creating furniture and lighting that challenge conventional ideas of materiality, form, and production. Blending scientific experimentation with sculptural expression, Hendry's work reveals the unexpected potential of industrial waste. Each piece captures a moment of material transformation, balancing structural performance with organic beauty while proposing a new approach to contemporary craftsmanship, where innovation, sustainability, and design converge.
