Le Berre Vevaud

For over fifteen years, Raphaël Le Berre and Thomas Vevaud have shaped a distinctive vision of interior architecture, guided by precision, craftsmanship, and a refined sense of color and material. Their practice draws on the tradition of the great French ensembliers, yet is constantly renewed by a cosmopolitan outlook that adapts fluidly to diverse contexts—from Parisian mansions to London penthouses and Mediterranean retreats. Their style embraces eclectic influences: the timeless elegance of Art Deco, the avant-garde spirit of the Bauhaus, and the poetic vibrancy of the Memphis movement, alongside inspiration from artists and architects such as Ado Chale, Charles Deacon, and Jacques Couëlle. Attentive to flow, light, and functionality, the duo design bespoke interiors where every detail is considered. Exclusive collections of furniture, lighting, and objects—presented in their Paris gallery at Carré Rive Gauche—extend their language into sculptural, sensual forms that embody both elegance and bold experimentation.
