Atelier ACM

Atelier ACM is the multidisciplinary practice of British artist and designer Alexander Carey-Morgan, whose work spans sculpture, collectible design, performance, and immersive spatial environments. Rooted in a deeply personal exploration of transformation, vulnerability, and self-discovery, the studio creates monumental works that blur the boundaries between art, design, and ritual. Drawing from nature, mythology, and ancient civilizations, its creations evoke archaeological relics and timeless artefacts, inviting reflection on the human condition and the enduring relationship between past and present. Through a distinctive language of raw materiality and excavated forms, Atelier ACM investigates themes of spiritual liberation, identity, and emotional renewal. Whether expressed through sculpture, furniture, or installation, the studio's work seeks to create immersive experiences that transcend conventional disciplines, revealing beauty in imperfection, transformation, and the traces of time.
