DESIGNER

Dirk Meylaerts

Dirk Meylaerts is a Belgian designer and maker based in Paris whose practice explores the relationship between process, material, and form. Guided by what he describes as procedural aesthetics, he creates collectible furniture shaped by method and constraint rather than function alone. Drawing on a background in philosophy, dance, and cabinetmaking, Meylaerts combines conceptual thinking with craftsmanship, developing works that bridge cultural references, tradition, and contemporary life. Working exclusively with salvaged solid woods such as pear and walnut, Meylaerts creates post-industrial furniture that celebrates the living character of materials while responding to contemporary ecological and social concerns. Through meticulous craftsmanship and a process-led approach, his work balances sculptural presence with quiet functionality, offering timeless pieces rooted in sustainability, material honesty, and thoughtful making.
