Simon Hamui is a Mexican designer and founder of Simon Hamui Design Studio, specializing in interior architecture and bespoke furniture. His practice is defined by an integrated approach that brings conceptual design and in-house production into a seamless dialogue, allowing each project to move fluidly from vision to material realization. The studio operates as both a design practice and production workshop, bringing together specialized crafts in carpentry, stone, upholstery, metalwork, and lighting. This structure allows Hamui to oversee every stage of the process with precision, while fostering close collaboration between architects, designers, and skilled artisans. Each project is developed as a highly tailored response to its context and purpose. By combining a contemporary design language with the richness of Mexican craftsmanship, Hamui creates interiors and objects of enduring quality—balancing functionality, refined aesthetics, and timeless presence through meticulous making.
