DESIGNER

Jeroen De Ruddere

Jeroen De Ruddere is a Belgian designer whose work is rooted in heritage and craftsmanship. Inspired by his grandfather, a renowned carpenter, he grew up in the workshop where he first witnessed how raw wood could be transformed into objects with soul. This early fascination evolved into a passion for uniting traditional woodworking with contemporary design. Trained in woodturning under one of Belgium's most respected masters, De Ruddere combines inherited knowledge with his own vision, seeking both to preserve and to innovate the craft. His hand-drawn designs translate inspirations from nature, architecture, and human experience into functional objects that balance refinement and emotion. Crafted from fine woods such as oak, walnut, and mahogany, and complemented by carefully chosen fabrics, his pieces are built to last, offering light and presence that resonate on a deeply personal level.
