DESIGNER

Tristan Montabord-Marc

Tristan Montabord-Marc is a French designer whose practice explores the enduring relationship between architecture, materiality, and light. Raised in France, he began his career in residential project development before establishing his independent design studio in 2021. Grounded in architectural discipline and guided by an intuitive sensitivity to space, his work reflects a pursuit of timeless minimalism and understated luxury. Each interior is conceived as a harmonious composition, where refined proportions, exceptional craftsmanship, and meticulous detailing converge to create environments of quiet permanence.

Extending this vision beyond architecture, Montabord-Marc introduced Auguste, his first limited-edition furniture collection, translating personal narratives into sculptural forms of lasting presence. Guided by a deeply human-centered approach, his practice considers everyday rituals and lived experience as essential design elements. Through a restrained yet expressive language, he creates spaces and objects that embody balance, serenity, and enduring elegance, inviting a profound dialogue between people, place, and time.
