DESIGNER

Julien Vidame

Julien Vidame is a French designer whose practice spans furniture, objects, and collectible design, shaped by a largely self-taught approach rooted in drawing and experimentation from an early age. His work reflects a constant dialogue between craft, technique, and invention, where ideas evolve from sketch to prototype through a hands-on and iterative process. After formative experiences in London and the development of his own studio, Vidame established a distinctive language defined by structural ingenuity and material exploration. His pieces often emerge from the creation of bespoke tools and processes, resulting in objects that balance technical precision with a strong sculptural presence.
